Special services in Salem churches tomorrow, a day in advance, will observe the anniversary of the birth of Christ.

While Christmas day does not arrive until Monday, practically all Salem churches will commemorate the birth of the Saviour tomorrow.

A number of churches have also planned services for Monday. Among the impressive rites scheduled for Sunday is a union vesper service at 4 p. m. at the First Presbyterian church at which a choir of about 60 voices will sing parts of Handel's famous oratorio, "The Messiah."

The choir, which has been rehearsing for several weeks, includes members of the Presbyterian, Methodist, Christian, Baptist, Emmanuel Lutheran and Trinity Lutheran churches.

Asks For Information; Allen County Republican Is Optimistic

COLUMBUS, Dec. 23.—Fred Hoffer of Homeworth, Columbiana county, has asked the secretary of state for nominating petitions to run for state representative. He did not announce his politics. He asked the secretary, however, to send him the name of that county representative from that county and his political affiliation. Hoffer also wanted to know what district Columbiana county is in.

Attaches of the secretary's office said they would inform him that Columbiana county's representative is John P. Stephenson, an East Liverpool High school teacher; that he is a Republican, and that Columbiana county constitutes a representative district in itself.

State Rep. L. H. Myers (R-Allen), serving his third consecutive term as an Ohio lawmaker, is so optimistic about Republican victory next year that he has launched a campaign for Republican floor leader

NAZIS PLAN TO RUN BLOCKADEReport 500 Ships Ordered
To Bring Cargoes to Germany

PARIS, Dec. 23.—French naval sources said today the Allies are keeping close watch for approximately 500 German ships reported to have received orders to return "by all possible routes" from neutral ports to the Reich.

These vessels have been immobilized since the start of the war with an estimated total cargo of 1,800,000 tons.

Authoritative sources said Germany apparently is making a great effort to get raw materials which the ships carry.

Allies, these sources said, have seized 750,000 tons of merchandise since the start of the war without counting 157,000 tons which the Germans have sent to the bottom by scuttling their own ships.

205 Claims Filed
By County Workers

Columbiana county workers filed 205 claims with the state industrial commission in November, a monthly report showed today. Three of the claims were listed as fatalities, while none showed permanent partial disability.

Thirty-nine claims reported more than seven days lost time, while 14 others listed seven days or less. In addition, there were 149 medical only cases.

The time lost by county workers amounted to 19,293 days.

(By Associated Press)
KARLSRUHE, Germany, Dec. 23.—Two disastrous collisions on German's war-strained railway system yesterday claimed 182 lives and injured 139 persons, officials announced today.

The second occurred between Marksdorf and Kluttern when a passenger train and a freight train struck head-on at top speed. It killed 50 persons and injured 30.

One hundred and thirty-two persons were killed and 109 injured when two passenger trains collided at Genthin.

10 Wrecks Since Oct. 8

Authorities made no comment on the series of 10 wrecks which have plagued the rail system since Oct. 8, costing 319 lives and injuring more than 311, but the "blackout" generally was regarded as responsible.

On the Genthin wreck, the papers also commented that misty weather made signaling difficult. First investigations indicated that faulty signaling caused last night's crash, railway authorities said, and the state prosecutor ordered arrest of the Marksdorf and Kluttern station agents.

Wrecks Listed

The previous wrecks were:
Oct. 8—20 killed, injured undetermined in collision in Berlin station;
Nov. 6—5 killed, 12 injured, derailment caused by rock slide near Reichenburg;

"In this envelope was a letter from your fiancé, Mr. . . . He was too talkative and wrote of things which did not concern him, and for this reason we were obliged to destroy his letter.

"All the same, we wish to assure you that he is quite well and sends his loving greetings and many kisses."

"When next you write to him, perhaps you would be good enough to ask him in future to write only love letters; then, naturally, we shall be very pleased to send them on."

MOSCOW, Dec. 23.—Failing for the third successive day to report any important gains against Finland, Soviet Russia declared today the Finns' natural and constructed defenses made impossible a "lightning blow."

The announcement by Prosecutor Stouffer followed intimations from that office that Tobin would not receive the yearly reappointment as first assistant prosecutor on Jan. 1, 1940, as a result of his recent selection by the Columbiana county Democratic executive committee as county chairman.

Tobin Takes Fickes' Post
Tobin was chosen to fill the post made vacant by the resignation of John Fickes of Wellsville, recently appointed as supervisor of the federal census in the 18th district.

Tobin will head the county Democrats until the party re-organization following the May 14 primaries.

Following a conference with party leaders Friday, Stouffer was non-committal concerning earlier intimations, and his only comment was that the change was made because both he and Tobin were candidates for political positions, and as such each would necessitate taking some time from the office for campaign purposes. However, party leaders here refused comment, although it is understood several have scratched their names from Stouffer's petition for common pleas judge.

LISBON, Dec. 23.—Prosecuting Attorney Karl T. Under the new arrangement, it is presumed Tobin will be assigned to the latter duties.

The announcement by Prosecutor Stouffer followed intimations from that office that Tobin would not receive the yearly reappointment as first assistant prosecutor on Jan. 1, 1940, as a result of his recent selection by the Columbiana county Democratic executive committee as county chairman.

VICTIM SLUGGED,
ROBBED OF $18

Makes way to Farmhouse,
Where He Notifies
State Patrol

Salem state highway patrolmen and Pennsylvania state motor police joined last night in a search for two hitch-hikers who abducted a Freedom, Pa., motorist slugged and robbed him, and later dumped him from his car along Route 165, a few miles north of Unity.

The victim, Theodore Fairley, 22, lay near the road for a short time before recovering sufficiently to make his way to a nearby farmhouse. The farmer notified the state patrol here.

Take $18

Fairley told Corp. W. E. Arey and Sergeant George McConnell of the patrol that the two men took $18 from his pocket before ejecting him from the machine. He saw them turn the car around and head back toward Pennsylvania.

The victim said the pair approached him and asked for a ride when he was forced to stop for a traffic light in Freedom yesterday afternoon. No sooner had he picked them up than one of the men shoved a revolver into Fairley's side and told him to move over. One got behind the wheel of the car, while the other youth sat in the back seat.

The ride led into Ohio and along Route 165, north of Unity, where the youth with the gun hit Fairley over the head and took his billfold.

Forced From Car, Slugged

After being forced from the car, Fairley was slugged again. The pair then fled with the automobile. This was at 6:30 p. m.

The car, a green sedan, bore Pennsylvania license plates EX384. Fairley told the state patrol that both men were between 24 and 25 years old and that both men wore chauffeur's caps.

One youth was about 5 feet, 10 inches tall, weighing about 175 pounds and wearing a brown top coat. The other was slightly smaller in build and stature. He had a mustache, wore glasses and had on a leather jacket.

State patrolmen pointed out that the pair was guilty of two federal law violations, that of kidnapping, and the Dyer act, driving a stolen car across a state line. In addition, charges of wounding with intent to kill and robbery could be filed.

CHRISTMAS

There is nothing elsewhere on earth like the celebration of Christmas in the United States. Only a nation so bountifully supplied with material wealth could afford such an outpouring of gifts in tribute to its faith in Christianity.

We celebrate the holiday in the fashion of the Magi bringing precious things to the Savior of Mankind, often only vaguely aware of the symbolic importance of the act. But it is not because of their extrinsic value that the gifts are precious.

They are precious because of the devotion that prompts them—the devotion of a Christian people to the ideals of their faith. It does not matter that the devotion may be unconscious, perhaps even unintentional. Christmas—Christianity—is a way of thinking.

Generosity, forgiveness, tolerance, kindness are not peculiar to one day or one season of the year. The spirit of Christmas is continuous and eternal. It exists even in places where it bears no name. It has survived everything that ever threatened to destroy it.

It will survive everything that threatens to destroy it now or in the future. It remains the hope of mankind for redemption—a hope strengthened, never weakened, by denial. It is that hope that we celebrate again this Christmas.

"HARD-BOILED"

F. H. Hill isn't a name to conjure with—just the name of a man who turned in his resignation as head of farm credit administration last Wednesday and was replaced pronto by a man named A. G. Black.

But out on the farms and in the agriculture department at Washington substitution of Black for Hill was something to think about. FCA makes mortgage loans to farmers. That's something to think about.

Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, explaining Hill's resignation, said he was too "hard-boiled." Black, who was known to be in line for the job when Hill lost it, presumably will not make the same mistake, at least not in a way to embarrass Mr. Wallace.

He is known as a New Deal liberal, meaning he has turned sour on what has been and is and is keen on what he thinks should be. It is expected that important things will happen to farm mortgage loans under his direction, which explains why with a presidential election coming along his appointment is big news wherever farmers understand the political implications of government loans on anything but a banking, i. e., a "hard-boiled," basis.

IDEAL CONSUMER TEST

Christmas is anything but a purely commercial festival, as some who miss the point of so much buying occasionally say, but it undoubtedly is of extreme commercial importance.

This is not entirely because of the volume of business done, but also because of what the volume of business tells about the state of the nation.

Christmas shoppers have a tendency to buy to the limit of their capacity. They are not subject to many of the restrictions on spending that influence buyers at other seasons—the restrictions that are lumped under the heading of "psychological handicaps."

The rate and total of their purchasing constitute an ideal test of consumer conditions. Manufacturers and merchants study the result carefully, with a view to future buying trends. The fact that Christmas sales this year have been on the whole slightly better than they were expected to be will be directly important in shaping the prospects of business for 1940.

SAVE US FROM "VIGOR"

American protests against European belligerence on this side of the Atlantic are genuine. War being the most important domestic industry of the mismanaged European nations, they should be willing to prosecute it at home. Americans aren't fooling about that.

At the moment of decision on the kind of protest to be made in the name of pan-American unity, however, a small prayer for protection against an overdose of diplomatic "vigor" is in order. Granted that neutrality and peace are worth getting tough about, to penetrate the thick skins of the belligerents, "vigor" has a way of getting out of hand.

It is the stock in trade of diplomats and politicians whose statesmanship reaches a climax in gunfire. "Vigor" has characterized all the exchanges of opinion that led up to the present war—and all past wars. Whenever it reaches the borderline of pugnacity, it's time for reasonable men to start digging a bombproof shelter. The goal of statesmanship on this side of the ocean is peace, not "vigor."

SPARKS OF INTELLIGENCE

Hidden in the run of news that doesn't make history is the studied conclusion of Dr. George L. Keezer of Cornell university that "sparks of intelligence" is more than a phrase.

The better the mind, the better the thought, the better the spark of electricity, says Dr. Keezer. Literally, the amount of electricity generated by a brain in process of thinking is determined by the intelligence of the brain.

This no doubt explains why the eyes light up and sometimes snap, why words crackle, why sizzling speeches are made, why faces grow hot with emotion, why speeches are surcharged with feeling, why lines get crossed and why sudden revelations are described as "turning on a light." It's a high voltage age, no doubt of it.

One good thing about that gold bonanza in Georgia is that it's not far from the gold mine to Ft. Knox.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, December 24

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds all the symbols of life, action, pleasure and spiritual uplift indicative of the spirit of Good Will and happiness pertinent to the season. There are signs of much traveling on short journeys, with the affairs of youth paramount. A hint of some degree of restraint in its festive indulgences may not be amiss. Be cautious with writings and packages, lest there be small loss.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a very active year, with benefits of major importance arising from deep undercurrents or unpredictable sources. All make for the fulfillment of fervent hopes and wishes, although it is admonished that carelessness with writings and documents might bring legal entanglements or loss. Friendships in high places should prove valuable.

A child born on this day may be versatile, resourceful, powerful and ambitious, winning the support of those in prestige and authority. Elements of expediency rather than principle in its character should be given early direction.

For Monday, December 25

MONDAY'S astrological forecast abounds with all the presages and prophecies to encourage the traditional gaiety and festivity of Merry Christmas, with the worthy, profound and mystical elements under high stimulus as well. Indeed, elders may be found particularly generous, with Venus and Jupiter shedding expansive and warming rays on young and old.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of unusual progress and prosperity, with rich reward for past industry and steadfastness. Elders will prove generous in their preferences or rewards. Be ready for surprising developments or change in the direction of advancement and accomplishment. High friendships and social contacts add to the prestige and popularity. Be vigilant to petty deceptions or subtleties.

A child born on this day may be deep, steady and industrious, and at the same time audacious, ingenious and skilful in unusual directions. It may be inventive or inaugurate new ways and means for advancing old matters into more progressive channels. Romance and adventure figure in its life. It may be subject to subtle enemies or peculiar snares.

Some sea battle box scores show more runs and errors than hits.

Putting it off from day to day is another way not to get Christmas shopping done early.

Troublesome Job To Devise Milk And Egg-Free Diets

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Sensitiveness to foods—food allergy—fortunately occurs most frequently with foods that are easy to get along without. Such offenders as strawberries, lobster, oysters, pork and peanuts can be omitted from the diet without much deprivation or nutritional danger, but when it comes to such fundamental things as milk, eggs and wheat, and it is found that a person has symptoms of catarrh, asthma, hives or diarrhea from these things, the question of treatment is not easy. They are constant requisites of the cook. Hardly any tasty dish is made without the use of either milk, eggs or wheat, and the cook who has to prepare food for a patient of this kind is at a great loss for substitutes.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Most of these cases occur in infancy and in the course of time, in my opinion, nearly all of us acquire an immunity, even if we are not immune at the beginning.

In infants with eczema, however, the problem of a milk-free and egg-free diet is very troublesome. However, milk can be imitated and the chemical constituents of milk in proper proportions made in artificial mixtures. Such a one is made out of soybean flour.

Sometimes simply boiling the milk will give relief. The substitution of goat's milk has been successfully used. The use of evaporated milk sometimes works.

A number of substitutes for wheat foods have been made. For instance:

Cinnamon Toast

Four tablespoons sugar
Two teaspoons cinnamon
Four rye-type wafers

Mix sugar and cinnamon together. Brush rye-type wafers with vegetable oil or shortening and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until light brown. Sprinkle on sugar mixture while warm.

Rye Rice Bread

One and one-third cups rye flour
Two-thirds cup rice flour
One-half teaspoon salt
Six teaspoons sugar
10 teaspoons baking powder
One and one-third cups water
Two teaspoons olive oil
Sift dry ingredients together. Add water and oil, beating thoroughly. Pour into loaf pan greased with olive oil and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 minutes. Makes one loaf.

The person who is egg sensitive gets along pretty well because he can eat any breads which do not have eggs used in them. For fats he can use butter, meat, poultry or vegetable fats, olive oil and oleomargarine. He can have all kinds of fruits, meats, nuts, poultry and game, sugars and vegetables. The cook must prepare pastries with no eggs. The cinnamon toast and rye rice bread, for which recipes are given above, come into this field.

Deserts present a great problem for these people but with some ingenuity desserts without either wheat, egg or milk can be concocted. An example is:

Candied Apple Betty

Two large, tart apples
Three-fourths cup brown sugar
One-half cup rye-type crumbs
One-fourth cup vegetable shortening

Christmas

It is only in the Americas that Christmas this year means "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

What a priceless gift to all of us to be able to live in a land free of strife and the dissensions of the old world.

What a joy to be in our home on Christmas Eve, secure in the knowledge that "your home is your castle."

Christmas will have a deeper meaning this year to all of us in this land of freedom.

Truly, the right of free enterprise, of individual endeavor is something worth working for . . . something to be cherished.

And Christmas means more to this institution at this time because The Home Savings and Loan Company has played a part in making this a community of home owners . . . for Christmas truly is a time to gather around the fireside.

Sunday Evening

The Sunday school Christmas program will be presented at 6 o'clock. Two large Christmas trees and new lights will greet young and old at this service. You can think of nothing better to bring us the right Christmas attitude than to mingle with children at the Christmas tide, to witness their joy and hear their songs. Just such a program has been worked out for this Sunday school Christmas program. To get the right frame of mind properly to celebrate Christmas, it will do you good to be with the youngsters.

Sunday school, 9:30 a. m.—Christmas program; Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.

"People often wonder how they may celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Christ in the very best way possible. The Christmas season must be one of real joy and service. Joy is a feeling that has its foundation deep within the human soul. Christ's coming brought 'Joy to the World.' Because the Savior came, the spirit of service has been increasing in the hearts and lives of Christian people. The infinite value of children, the kinder attitude to the poor and unfortunate and the undying ideal for world peace have come from the gospel of Christ."

Morning worship, 11:00—Sermon, "Magnifying the Lord."

"Praising God has been the desire of the people of God, since the beginning of time. The record of Holy Writ that tells us of the events of the Christmas season tells of the shepherds, angels and the Virgin Mary who gave God the praise of hearts and voices. There is much reason and cause that God should be thanked and honored for His goodness and mercy to us. The Christmas season as a season of magnifying God, must not give cause for God to be forgotten the rest of the year."

"Holy Child of Bethlehem, Descend on us, we pray; Cast out our sins, and enter in, Be born in us today."

Keeping Your Secret

The expectant father will be pleased at the bills for such styles as these, smart but inexpensive.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

MOST mothers-to-be plan to forget their maternity clothes once the baby arrives, but many make the mistake of waiting five or six months to purchase the simple dress or suit which eventually makes life easier. It's only sensible to select an adaptable style early in the game, and it can be done without sacrifice of chic.

The sheer wool frock, left, doesn't resemble an expectant mother's dress in the least, yet it has all of the advantages. The waist is let out by the draw-fabric-sash and the skirt is full enough for sitting grace. The back is on princess lines, almost straight. This comes in Copenhagen, black and ashes of blue, with a little pique collar over the self-collar.

Lightweight wool is also used for the suit, right: a one-piece dress and jacket falling below the waistline. The frock is sketched by itself to show the pretty neckline and to indicate the wrap-around skirt. The lap is completed at the side in front and secured by the neat self-sash bow-tied at the opposite side. Colors are Norwegian blue, a cheerful shade; aqua, rose, green, red and navy, and there's also black. The wool of this suit is soft enough to permit wearing under a winter coat, yet sufficiently warm for spring.

Big, More Powerful Battleships Would Be Benefit to U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—A congressional sub-committee is exploring the advisability of giving the Navy 65,000-ton battleships, vastly bigger and more powerful than any now afloat or known to be in prospect abroad.

The house naval appropriations subcommittee has asked the Navy department to prepare estimates on the cost of such ships—almost double the size of the fleet's biggest.

Coincidentally, Rep. Maas (R-Minn.), senior minority member of the house naval committee, recommended battleships up to 30,000 tons in size. He asserted that they would be cheaper in the long run and would make this country "absolutely invulnerable."

At present, 35,000-ton battleships form what naval leaders call the "backbone" of the fleet.

Scientists Push War on Sleeping Sickness

Although unwilling to make specific claims, scientists see great progress in the war on sleeping sickness in a new serum technique which uses the unborn chick as a source. The eleven-day-old chick is inoculated with the sleeping sickness virus as shown at left. When chick is about to break out of shell, embryo is removed (top) and made into vaccine, which is injected in horses (right). Physicians hope development of new vaccine will bring recovery to such victims of sleeping sickness as little Mary Ellen Reardon, of Chicago (inset) who was stricken March 25, 1938.

AVIATION BOOM MAKES KANSAN

E. J. Sweeney Well On Way to 2nd Fortune After Being Broke

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—This is the story of a man who had a million dollars in 1917 and $40 in 1932. It is also the story of a man on the road back.

He is E. J. Sweeney, who with a shoestring and a firm belief in the automobile, in 1908 founded the Sweeney Automobile school. In 20 years his school trained 87,000 automotive mechanics, technicians and designers and made its founder a millionaire.

He built a skyscraper to house his school and from its profits he built a 30-room mansion.

He envisioned the increased use of the airplane and he added an aviation department to his "mechanics" college. As early as 1915 his instructors were teaching the vagaries of early model airplane engines and Wiley Post was an early student.

Sweeney sought a tract on which to build an air school equal to the reputation his automobile school had earned. He found the site, bordering the Missouri river in Kansas City, Kas. He purchased the property—and then the bubble burst.

Nearly Broke in 1932
Sweeney, the millionaire, was wiped out in the financial crash of 1929. By 1932 his skyscraper school was gone. So was his mansion. His seven servants had been dismissed. He had $40 in his pocket.

The same spirit that built his first school, however, he carried with him as he headed south. He stopped in Wichita, Kas., and there he founded the air school of which he had dreamed in Kansas City.

As ordinary men view achievement, his Wichita school was a success. But Sweeney believed he had reached the limit there and besides, he saw an opportunity in Dallas.

There he aided in another air school venture. It also was an "average" success. What Sweeney did not express during those seven years in Wichita and Dallas but what probably often flashed across his subconscious mind was that he was gaining valuable experience in air school management. He was keeping up with the swift pace of aeronautical development. When the break came, he was going to be prepared.

The break came recently. E. J. Sweeney made it. Kansas City capitalists—his friends in pre-depression days—adopted it.

School Opens Soon
The Sweeney Aviation Schools, Inc., will begin operations soon on the site that its founder selected a decade ago.

Sweeney and his backers, who have incorporated with $30,000 of preferred and common stock, have leased the Fairfax Air Terminal in Kansas City, Kas.—the air-drome and buildings erected on the very Missouri river plot Sweeney purchased when he first dreamed of an air school and lost.

Schooner Northwest Brings $550 At Sale

DETROIT, Dec. 23.—J. H. McSweeney, of Detroit, who purchased the 58-year-old schooner Northwest for $550, said today he would overhaul the vessel for his personal use.

The Northwest, one of the Great Lakes' last two-masters, was sold at auction in connection with a $1,500 claim, laid against the schooner and Capt. T. B. Thompson, her owner.

The customs border patrol seized the vessel Sept. 12 for alleged violation of navigation regulations. It was indicated the patrol would free her to McSweeney.

Germany In Trade Pact With Latvia

BERLIN, Dec. 23.—Germany and Latvia concluded an agreement today for the exchange of goods in 1940 whereby exports from both countries will be increased. Details were not disclosed.

The Germans also have concluded a trade agreement with Roumania, the details of which are expected to be published later.

Germany likewise is discussing a rearrangement of exchanges with Belgium, in view of diminished Belgian exports to Germany, especially of Congo copper.

The British have been stopping copper shipments, refusing to permit the copper to reach Belgium if destined for Germany.

Hollywood Thinking Already of Year's Outstanding Movie

(By Associated Press)
HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 23.—With Christmas and the Rose Bowl and New Year's resolutions and horse racing matters of the moment, you'd imagine the Hollywood folks wouldn't have time to think about the year's best picture.

But they are. The academy awards dinner doesn't come off until Feb. 29, but opinion in Hollywood now is that it's all over but the formality of speeches and posing for the newsreels.

Here are the 10 pictures most likely to be considered:

"Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" (Columbia)
"Stage Coach" (Wanger)
"Dark Victory" (Warners)
"Love Affair" (R. K. O.)
"Wuthering Heights" (Goldwyn)
"Good-Bye, Mr. Chips" (M. G. M.)
"Young Mr. Lincoln" (20th Century)

"Bachelor Mother" (R. K. O.)
"The Great Victor Herbert" (Paramount)
"Gone With the Wind" (Selznick)

This list, with some additions by studios wanting recognition, or more, or better recognition, will be pared down to five by the academy's nominating committee. The five-picture ballot, along with other ballots for choosing actor and actress and director, will be submitted to the hundreds who vote in the academy sweepstakes.

No Protest

DENVER—Some of Colorado's old-age pensioners protest required publication of their names—but not Paul Winter and Mrs. Lydia Winters.

It led them to the altar. Winter, 79 "saw Lydia's name just above mine. I liked it and wrote her a letter."

"And then I invited him to call," said Mrs. Winters.

And so—romance!

PARIS PLANNING MERRY YULETIDE

It Takes More Than a War
To Still the Christmas Spirit

of the color is lacking, none of the feeling is missing; the sentiment among the people is there, war or no war.

Dismal, drizzling weather is Paris Christmas weather and its grayness and bleakness is a shroud for the sadness of the city—a sadness which is, nevertheless, like the rain, a background, something to try to ignore and go through.

Even the government has felt the Yuletide spirit creeping over the populace and has bowed to merchants' demands for more light, with the result that far after sunset these days, but only for the shopping days, store windows glow brilliantly. Many electrical tricks have come forth to throw bright light within the window but not into the street outside.

It will, of course, be a practical Christmas for France. Most men's gifts, according to an International News Service survey of the major stores, will be needed supplies for military services, such as shaving kits, or sleeping bags, heavier boots, warmer underclothing. But the usual men's gifts of ties, pipes, bathrobes, shirts, watches, and all sundry products are selling as well.

Feminine Presents Unchanged

Women's presents have changed little, despite the war, which has only given the men inclination to spend more and on brighter gifts to make up for the lack of color caused by military preparedness.

Children's gifts run first the military gauntlet, from soldiers and tanks, to airplanes and battleships, and then go back to the peacetime favorites of electric trains, automobiles, chemical sets, and building sets.

After Christmas, with New Year's, Paris is getting ready to cut loose. The city is expected to be full of troops on leave with the result that already other cafes are preparing to reopen for the holiday period; new cinemas are opening with special releases of Hollywood's latest pictures; ten legitimate theatres have reopened, along with the Opera and nine music halls; and speakies are springing up all over town.

It'll be Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year for at least a ten-day period, with some of the gaiety, noise, and all the spirit—even if it does mean separated families, back to the trenches, and war on the morrow.

Final Division of Sales Tax Revenue Listed by Auditor

LISBON, Dec. 23.—County Auditor Ross Tisher today announced the fourth and final distribution of sales tax revenue to the county, corporations and townships, making a total of $94,956 for the year 1939, as compared with $88,958.06 during 1938. First Class

Jimmy Primm and Dale Wykoff picked up the paper last night and read where they had passed second class Boy Scout tests.

That was too hard a pill for two energetic boys to swallow. They contended they were far from the neophyte ranks for, you see, it was a first class scout advancement they had received.

So now, be it known, they are first class boys and first class scouts.

CAGE COACHES ARE INVITED TO COLLEGE CLINIC

Students And Alumni Join In Protest Over Chicago's Decision To Drop Football

Opinion Differs On Whether Windy City College Will Be Permitted To Remain In Big Ten; Pitt Rumored As A New Member

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—The volume of protests grew like a rolling snowball today as alumni and students cried out against the abolition of intercollegiate football at the University of Chicago.

As of one voice, large blocs of students and alumni showed clearly their resentment and indignation at the sudden action of the board of trustees in clipping the 47-year-old sport from the school's intercollegiate athletic calendar.

It is too early to say whether their protests would result in a concerted move to have the trustees reconsider their decision.

Many of the school's followers wondered if Chicago, without a varsity football team, could hold its membership in the Western conference, of which it is a charter member. There was wide difference of opinion on this point, officials of other Big Ten schools taking opposite viewpoints on the matter. The conference's faculty committee is expected to meet after the holidays to discuss the matter.

Explains Rules

Dr. W. J. Moenkhaus of Indiana University, chairman of the faculty representatives, said: "There is nothing specific in the organization rules that makes it obligatory for a member school to compete in all sports sponsored by the conference."

Prof. O. F. Long, Northwestern's member of the faculty committee, emphasizing he wasn't speaking for the conference, said to allow the Maroons to stay in the Big Ten without a football team would be a violation of the spirit of the conference.

Hundreds of alumni expressed their regret at the action, among them President John Schommer and Secretary John Chapman of the Chicago Alumni club, which has 1,500 members, and Jay Berwanger, 1935 All-America back and last Chicago player to attain such honors.

The possibility that Chicago might be forced from the conference led to widespread speculation on who would take its place. Most prominently mentioned was the University of Pittsburgh, which recently made reforms in its athletic set-up to conform with Big Ten regulations. Others rated as likely successor to the Maroons were Notre Dame, Nebraska and Michigan State.

LISBON BEATEN BY COLUMBIANA

Beach's Cagers Ring Up 42-13 Victory Over Blue Devils

COLUMBIANA, Dec. 23.—Scoring freely in every period, Coach Al Beach's Columbiana High school cagers outclassed Lisbon High's Blue Devils, 42 to 14, in a Tri-County league basketball game at Lisbon last night. It was Columbiana's fourth straight victory.

George Clesker and Burkle paced the Columbiana scoring, the former collecting 13 points and the latter 11. Henderson counted seven points for Lisbon. Columbiana led, 22 to 3, at the half.

The Columbiana reserves topped Lisbon subs, 33 to 17, in the preliminary game.

They Figure in News as Chicago Drops Football

Clark Shaughnessy

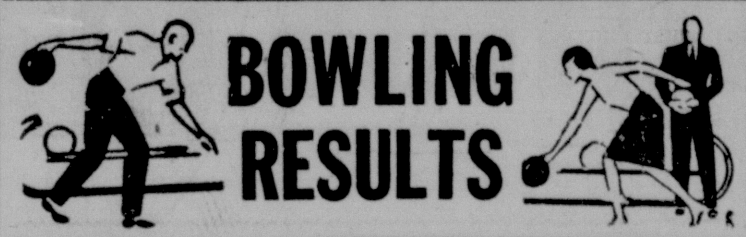

A. A. Stagg

Dr. R. Hutchins

News that the University of Chicago is dropping intercollegiate football pushes these three men into the sports news. Clark Shaughnessy, the Maroon coach, will lose his football job. Amos Alonzo Stagg is the man who "made" football at Chicago, having been coach there for 41 years prior to Shaughnessy's appointment. Dr. Robert Hutchins, president of the university and an ardent foe of overemphasized football, issued a statement: "the university believes that particular interests and conditions are such that its students now derive no special benefit from intercollegiate football."

BOWLING RESULTS

A deadlock for first place in the Federal league was broken at the Masonic temple alleys last night as Meissner's Service won three games from the Eagles to take over the leading position.

The Ohio Edison Dodgers, who were formerly tied for the lead, dropped to second place when they lost two out of three games with Brownie's Service.

The Sanitary Foremen won three games from the National Brass & Copper to remain in fourth place, while the Sanitary Shippers posted two wins over the Knights of Columbus in another match.

The Grate Recreation Juniors, bowling in a special match at Sebring, lost to Sebring Recreation Juniors, 2201 to 2560. Jim Yuhasz was high for the Salem team, hitting 582 in the five-man match and 605 in a doubles contest in which he and B. Riley defeated Buck and Campbell of Sebring, 1188 to 1070.

MOTORS BATTLE PATRICIANS AT MEMORIAL GYM

Althouse Road Team To Make Home Debut Tonight

The Althouse Motors' road team will make its first home appearance of the 1939-40 basketball season at the Memorial building tonight, facing the Youngstown Patricians in the feature tilt of a two-game program.

The Motors have added several new players to their squad this season, among them Larry Russell, former Alliance High star.

Russell played with the Motors last Sunday night when they lost to the Akron M. O'Neils in the preliminary game to the Firestone-Sheboygan National league contest in Firestone gym in Akron.

The Motors' squad also includes Sammy Drakulich, Bill Cope, Ed and Bob Jeffries and Al Carlos, all leading players from the city's Class A league.

The Patricians, who annually produce one of Youngstown's leading semi-pro cage teams, are expected to give the Motors a stiff battle.

Meeting in the preliminary game will be Roberts Men's Shop of the City Class A league and the Warren Spider club.

Plan Basketball Clinic At Mount Union College With Wright In Charge

Cage Coaches To Gather On Campus Thursday, Dec. 28, for Program of Addresses and Discussion Of Phases of Game

ALLIANCE, Dec. 23.—Eighty-three Mount Union trained Ohio coaches are among the 250 "M" Club members invited to attend Mount Union college's basketball clinic, which is scheduled to be held on the Mount Union campus Thursday, Dec. 28.

The Mount Union physical education department, headed by coaches Robert Wright and Harry Geltz, has arranged a program of addresses and open forums to cover the various phases of the cage game. The clinic will open at Memorial Hall at 2 p. m. and will close with an "M" Club meeting at the Alliance Country club in the evening.

Fundamentals, foul shooting, held balls, types of defense, and types of offense will be presented to returning Mount Union graduates by former Mount men who are now in Ohio's coaching ranks.

Leading Coaches Speak
Some of the state's most successful high school cage mentors will address the clinic. Ray Swope, whose North Canton High school quintet copped the state "B" title last season, will speak on "fundamentals". Philip "Nip" Heim, now coaching at Timken Technical High school in Canton, will discuss "offense against a man-for-man defense".

Heim was formerly with Canal Fulton where he produced a state championship team in the 1937-38 season.
Other coaches who will speak before the gathering include LeRoy Raber, Kenton High school coach and president of the "M" Club; Wallace Glenwright, coach at Sandusky High school; Corl Zimmerman, coach at Akron Garfield; Al Beach, coach at Columbiana High school; and Lowell Lamb, coach at the State Street Junior High school of Alliance.

A summary of the clinic discussion will be presented by Robert Wright, Mount's director of athletics and head basketball coach. Wright, who has brought six Ohio conference championships to Mount since 1923, will illustrate cage points with demonstrations by his 1939-40 basketball squad.

Following dinner at the Alliance Country club at 6:00 p. m., the "M" Club will convene with LeRoy Raber, president, in charge.

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR!

To all God's children everywhere. This is the one time of the year when the rich and the poor, the high and the low and the meek and the mighty mingle together in one accord and on one common plane to lay aside their arduous duties in order to ring out gladness and cheer, to help those who are needy, and to do homage to the lowly child of Bethlehem. During all the coming year may the world be so filled with reverence for The Omnipotent and love for one's fellow man that swords shall be turned back to plowshares, spears into pruning hooks and all the world lulled into a tranquil and lasting peace.

"LOVE'S INTERLUDE" by -MAY-CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XIII
It was a lowering November afternoon. A flurry of snow on Fifth ave. An icy wind blowing.

But all was bustle and warmth inside Deverney's beauty parlor. Each little booth was filled.
For New York's women (those who had the money) must be beautified for cocktail parties, charity teas, dinner-parties, theater-parties, supper-parties, night clubs, the never-ceasing round of big balls.

Mrs. Rules was here, in Moira's booth. It was odd—or was the reason only too painfully obvious—that since the introduction to Tarleton Griggs, the widow came three times as often for beauty treatments.

It seemed to Moira, too, that her once timid manner had undergone a change.
She was not nearly so loquacious. But the small eyes watched her keenly in the mirror—almost furtively, thought Moira. And often she was quite aggressive. And always, now, patronizing!

"I want you to make me specially beautiful, for I have a very important date this evening," perkily said Mrs. Rules. "First I'll have a facial. And don't cut it short, like you did the last time. Goodness knows, it costs plenty!"

A date? With whom?
"Try to relax, won't you, Mrs. Rules?"

"That's up to you, Miss Moira. A friend just told me that in Dorothy Marden's beauty shop the operators work up and down the spine. You should do that, too! That manipulation at the back of the neck isn't sufficient for proper relaxation!"

So Moira gave her fifteen minutes longer than the usual time.

"And now I want my hair set." The customer glanced at her wrist watch. "Good heavens! You've been ages! I'll be late for my appointment! You'll have to give me a dry shampoo."

"I don't like them, Mrs. Rules." "Nonsense! There's that new one on the market. Now don't tell me it's too drying! I haven't time today for the oil treatment."

"Then why not leave out the shampoo altogether? I'll just use the setting lotion."

"You'll do nothing of the kind! I've got to have a good wave! I want the Nomarcus Dry Shampoo. I tell you! You pour it on, and then you rub it with a towel. It dries immediately, leaving the hair clean, soft and silky."

"But—" "I don't want any arguments," snapped Mrs. Rules. "You've delayed me long enough." Which was illogical, since she had herself insisted on the prolonged facial.

Moira went in search of Mrs. Deverney.

The proprietrix had left early. She spoke to the husband.
"If she wants the Nomarcus Dry Shampoo, give it to her, by all means. What the customers say is right. I'll put an extra dollar on the bill," grinned Joe Deverney.

What happened afterwards was to be forever confused in Moira's mind. The yellow liquid with its guarantee upon the label was poured on Mrs. Rules' head. Moira started to rub it in.

Evelyn Groves strolled into the booth, an unlit cigaret between her lips. She struck a match.

There was a sudden, horrible conflagration. Great spurts of flame flew from the scalp. It seemed the whole head was immediately ablaze. Mrs. Rules screamed in agony. Evelyn screamed, too, and flew from the booth. Moira, her hands burned, dashed to her cabinet for a towel. There were none there!

"Help! Help!" shrieked Mrs. Rules. Moira tore off her uniform, flung it over her customer, beating the flames with her painfully burned palms.

Everyone rushed to the booth. Joe Deverney turned a jet of water through the spray. It hissed upon the uniform, the writhing head. The shrieks were stilled.

"An ambulance! At once!" gasped Moira through white lips. "Telephone—for God's sake!"

"We don't know the number!" The girls were panicky. She herself rushed to the phone. It hurt horribly to lift the receiver, but she did so. "Operator! Operator! An ambulance. Bad burning case! Any hospital?"

Then she fainted.

She came to as the loud clanging of the ambulance sounded outside.

"Moira! I want Miss Moira!" They were carrying the patient out, and she heard the mumbled words.

"I'll go! She needs me!" Dreadful nightmare was the ride. Would Mrs. Rules die? Had she killed her? Would she be permanently disfigured?

The young interne and his attendant in the car were kind. They put salve upon her hands and bound them, but her thoughts were all for the other woman.

Great arc-lights at the hospital gates. The ambulance door opened, the stretcher lifted out.

A firm hand under her arm. A long passage. Nurses. White uniforms. A reek of disinfectants, of iodiform.

A voice: "We have met before!" She was looking into the eyes of Dr. Rodney Stone.

Halted by the young surgeon in the long, clean corridor of the Mid-town hospital, Moira tried to return his greeting—but no words would come.

His keen, professional gaze noted the lily-white face with its anguished eyes, the caught underlip, the bandaged hands, the struggle for self-control. He saw, too, the shabby coat, the worn shoes below the slim ankles.

A different meeting, indeed, from the encounter in his own Park ave. home, when he had thought her one of his sister's friends. When she had not turned up at the ball, he had questioned Amanda.

brought her again into his path did not astonish him. He was conscious only of a desire to help, for she was obviously in trouble.

They were within a yard or two of his private sitting-room door.

"Come this way." He piloted her in, and gently pushed her into a deep leather chair. A queer fog seemed to swirl about her as she leaned back weakly and closed her eyes.

Came the smell of aromatic spirits of ammonia. "Drink this down, and then I'll have a look at those hands."

Capable but gentle fingers unwinding the bandages, kind voice talking to her, drawing the story from her, giving her reassurance.

"Go home and rest. Tonight you must take this sedative—" he scribbled a prescription—"and you must come in tomorrow for a fresh dressing. As you go out, leave your address and telephone number at the desk, Miss—Miss—" "Moira Carewe." She rose. "But you'll let me stay until I hear about Mrs. Rules?"

"Naturally." He went towards the door. She followed. Out in the corridor, she murmured desperately: "If she doesn't get over it—if she dies—"—her voice rose hysterically—"Oh, Dr. Stone, if she dies, it'll be my fault! I'll have killed her!"

Eyes swimming in tears, she collided with the white-clad figure of a nurse.

"Miss Emmet, take the young lady to the waiting room, and then join me in operating room number five."

Moira was conscious of a thin woman with curiously pale eyes assessing her sharply, then saying, in a practiced official voice that had a hard ring: "Certainly, doctor. I'll be there directly."
